Propose U. S. Take Islands Of French Over

Government To Likely Await Collaboration

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(AP)—Four Democrats on the senate foreign relations committee—Clark of Missouri, Reynolds of North Carolina, Pepper of Florida and Murray of Montana—suggested today that the United States take over French Islands possessions this hemisphere.

While differing widely on other foreign policies, the four agreed in separate interviews with reporters that this country should assume control of the French possessions in view of Marshal Petain's talk of collaboration with Berlin.

"The boa constrictor is tightening his coils around us," Pepper said. "If we do not establish ourselves in positions where it can not crush us we will have a terrible fight later on.

"If we hold the outposts, they can't get at us. If we have to take the outposts after they have them there will be much bloodshed."

French islands in the western hemisphere included Martinique, a key strategic spot in the belt of islands eastward of the Panama canal. Guadeloupe, also in the eastern Carribbean; Miquelon and St. Pierre off the coast of Newfoundland, and Clipperton in the Pacific off the Mexican coast.

Pepper, Murray and Reynolds agreed that any step regarding French Guiana, on the mainland of South America, should be a topic of discussion among all American republics.

Direct Action Urged

Although the senators urged direct United States action, it was believed that this government would take no step except in collaboration with the other American republics. The pact of Havana provided for joint action in event the status of foreign possesions in the western hemisphere was threatened by developments of the war.

In that connection, it was reported authoritatively that the 21 American republics were ready to establish "provisional administration" over the French colonies if French - German collaboration should extend to this hemisphere.

Informed persons said, however, that decisive action would await clarification of Vichy's attitude toward Berlin.

Miners Stay On Jobs To Friday

NE WYORK, May 17.—(AP)—An agreement to continue production of soft coal during further negotiations between southern Appalachian operators and the United Mine Workers of America (CIO) was announced tonight by William H. Davis, vice chairman of the National Defense Mediation Board.

Davis said conferences between operators and the union would continue in New York, and that if no agreement was reached by 10 a. m. Friday, both sides would report at that time before the Mediation Board in Washington.

Negotiators had indicated previous to tonight's meeting with Davis that they were unable to reach agreement. John L. Lewis, union chieftain, had said a work stoppage might begin next Wednesday among the 330,000 miners in the eight-state Appalachian area.

Earlier today, the union ordered 100,000 hard coal miners to leave their jobs Monday because of failure of the union and Pennsylvania Anthracite operators to reach a new contract agreement.

The anthracite fields, producing virtually all of American hard coal, are in northeastern Pennsylvania. In an effort to forestall the stoppage, the union and the operators agreed to confer again at 1 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Edward B. McCubbin Dies In A Heart Attack

Sudden Passing In Pacific Cafe On Saturday Night

Edward B. McCubbin, 65 years old, well known Sedalian, died suddenly about six o'clock Saturday evening while at his work at the Pacific Cafe, where he was a cashier. Death was due to a heart attack, and Dr. W. T. Bishop, coroner, who viewed the body, stated an inquest was not necessary.

Mr. McCubbin, who resided at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hugenschmidt, on West Fourth street, had complained of a pain in his chest for three days. He was accustomed to going to his room each afternoon and taking a nap and Saturday, following his usual custom, he went there and when asked by Mrs. Hugenschmidt if he did not feel well, said he didn't. She suggested he see a doctor and he said he would a little later.

Stricken In Checking Goods

Mr. McCubbin went to the cafe, listened to the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston baseball game and after the game he began to check some merchandise at the place of business. He had carried a case of beverage from a store room and placed it upon a counter, turned to write a notation, when he collapsed. He fell behind the counter.

John Starkey, another cashier, who was standing at the end of the counter, and "Pete" Clopton, a waiter, rushed to his aid. They lifted him from the floor and placed him on the counter, where he passed away a few minutes later without regaining consciousness.

Mr. McCubbin had been employed at the Pacific cafe for the past fifteen years. For many years he was city salesman for the Maltby Coffee Company and prior to that a cigar maker, then salesman for the Sedalia Candy Co.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Walter Gibbons of Kansas City and Mrs. Emil Zoernig, St. Louis.

Mrs. Gibbons arrived in Se-

Launch Nation Wide Roundup Among Aliens

Campaign Chiefly Aimed At Seamen Of The Nazis

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(AP)—A nation-wide roundup of aliens known to be in this country illegally was launched suddenly tonight by the justice department. The campaign centered in eight seacoast cities and was aimed principally at Nazi seamen who have overstayed their leave.

Lemuel B. Schofield, special assistant attorney general in charge of the immigration division, said immigration agents and police were seeking a number of aliens shown by files to have entered the country irregularly or to have remained illegally.

He emphasized that the aliens' status was disclosed by the immigration service files and that the drive had no connection with the recent national alien registration. He declined to disclose how many aliens were sought or the progress of the roundup so far.

Immigration agents and police were concentrating their efforts in New York, Boston, Baltimore, Miami, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland, Ore.

The roundup technicaly was designed to catch all aliens who are here irregularly but it was reported reliably that the campaign was aimed principally at German Italian seamen in an extension of the general policy that led to the recent seizure of axis ships and the arrest of their crews.

Assisted By Police

An immigration service spokesman said "several hundred" inspectors were assisted by police in the New York drive. Shortly before midnight, E. S. T. a Scotchman and a Portuguese were taken to Ellis Island.

Police combing Manhattan's west side brought in 13 Greeks and one Swede for questioning. Fifteen Italians were brought to headquarters for interrogation in Brooklyn. One man was held in

Expect Throng At REA Show

Monster Free Show To Open On Thursday Night

Thousands are expected to attend the REA farm electric equipment show this week at the Banning farm three miles east of Sedalia, which opens Thursday night, May 22, and continues through Friday with a special show at 10 a. m. Friday.

The event is held with the Central Missouri and Co-Mo Electric cooperatives sponsoring it and members of those bodies together with their friends and neighbors await with great interest its presentation.

Members of the show staff and additional labor will be engaged all day Thursday in getting the huge tents, trailers and exhibits placed after arrival of the big motorcade either Wednesday night, or early Thursday morning.

The big expanse of gay colored canvas, topped by streaming flags and pennants, will lend a festive air to this most practical and far reaching exhibit of electric farm and home equipment. It is probably the largest display of its kind ever to tour the country. Since July, 1939, the show has made 144 stops in 21 states and has been seen by more than 475,000 farm people.

As the two big tents, auditorium and exhibit, are going up, smaller tents will be pitched for the All-Electric lunch stand, work shop of the show personnel, and for sanitary facilities, while the special REA department of agriculture educational trailers and the manufacturers' trailer exhibits are swung into place on the show midway.

Truckloads of Farm Equipment

On the show midway, other workers will be busy setting up the batteries of feed grinders, shellers, elevators, ensilage cutters, pumps irrigation plants, motors, and other equipment as it is uncrated. This equipment will be demonstrated under farm conditions by D. W. Teare, agricultural engineer and show manager, ably assisted by Clate Cox, REA regional representative, and Ken-

Perry was arrested here a few weeks ago by Sergeant Paul E. Corl of the highway patrol in a car in front of the Sedalia postoffice.

British Keep Up Attacks On Egypt Border

Tangle With The Axis Forces In Bitter Battle

CAIRO, Egypt, May 17-(AP)—British and axis armored detachments slashing across dunes and wadis of the Egyptian-Libyan border region in swift attack and counter-attack, were tangled today in a battle in which both sides claimed the advantage.

The British said they were hounding the defenders of Fort Capuzzo, battered fortress just inside the Libyan frontier, and had inflicted losses with a limited offensive from the heavily-fortified port of Tobruk, in the rear of the German and Italian lines.

But the British had nothing to say of Salum, seaside Egyptian frontier village which they took yesterday, and the Germans claimed to have recaptured today.

If both German and British reports represented up-to-date conditions at the front, the Germans at Salum were holding a pocket at the British rear, while the British at Tobruk had a similar pocket behind the Germans and Italians.

Take 500 Prisoners

More than 500 prisoners have been captured and many armored cars smashed in the bitter fighting at Capuzzo, now baked by the desert heat, the British declared.

They said 60 men were captured and a tank and guns were destroyed by a successful sortie from Tobruk's defenders, who have been holding out now for a month.

The British struck back fiercely, calling again on the fleet air arm to bolster the RAF bombardments of German-Italian-Iraqi concentrations.

The RAF middle east command here announced that its Dhibban air station on Lake Habbaniyah, 60 miles west or Baghdad, was raided by a formation of Heinkels supported by the new German Messerschmitt 110 fighters. It asserted damage was slight, but acknowledged a few casualties and said the Germans also machine-gunned an ambulance on the plateau above the airdrome.

Defend Middle East

LONDON, May 17.—(AP)—Britain recognizes control of the middle east as almost as important as the defense of the British Isles themselves and on a par with the vital battle of the Atlantic and proposes to defend it accordingly, informed British sources declared tonight.

Convoy Opponents Leave Next Move Up To Administration

Look For Red Sea Shipments For A Showdown

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(AP)—With congressional opponents of convoys leaving the next move up to the administration, Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.) predicted today that a showdown on the question of using the navy to guard war shipments would follow any axis attempt to block the deliver of American equipment to Red Sea ports.

Asserting that the outcome of the war in Africa might hinge on the prompt transportation of tanks and other materials to the British in that area, Pepper told reporters he personally had no doubt that this government would take the necessary steps to see that supply ships got through.

President Roosevelt recently lifted combat zone restrictions from the Red Sea, thus opening it to American shipping. Germany later countered by including the area in its declared blockade zone and warning it would attempt to sink any shipping that entered.

President Roosevelt said at the time he threw the area open that it was the navy's duty to protect American shipping wherever it went legally and the inference was that this would hold true in the Red Sea as elsewhere.

Duty To "Protect Shipments"

While Pepper emphasized that he knew nothing of the President's plans, he said he considered it to be Mr. Roosevelt's "duty" to assure protection of shipments via the Red Sea to Egypt's "back door."

"It is the President's duty to see that our ships and our commerce are not driven off the oceans of the earth," he said. "And I believe that it is the intention of our people that the President shall see to it that Britain gets the goods wherever she needs them."

Senator Nye (R.-N. D.) differed with Pepper regarding the public's attitude. The North Dakotan said in an interview that a trip last week through the middle and far western states had convinced him that there was a rising tide of public sentiment against convoys.

For that reason, Nye said, he and other opponents of convoys were quite willing to wait for President Roosevelt to make the next move in the controversy.

Nye was one of those who prevailed upon Senator Tobey (R.-N. H.) not to seek senate vote this week on a resolution to put congress on record against convoys.

Tobey served notice that he would offer the resolution at an appropriate time. However, Nye said he did not believe such time would arrive until there were definite indications that the President had made up his mind what course to pursue.

Find Bodies Of Five Slain On Indiana Farm

Revealed Killings Were With Large Gauge Shotgun

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind., May 17—(AP)—The bloody bodies of five persons slain with a large-gauge shotgun were found today scattered over a farm in the Laughery creek bottoms, 14 miles southwest of here.

Coroner Harry T. Moon identified the dead as:

Johnston Agrue, about 65, who lived on the farm and worked on the Jefferson ordnance proving ground construction project at Madison, Ind.; his wife, Nantha, about 60; their son, Leo, 22, who lived on the farm with them; another son, William, 29, of Lawrenceburg, and a granddaughter, Mary Elizabeth Breeden, 11, child of William Breeden of Lawrenceburg.

Dr. Moon said a neighbor, Joseph Smith, heard five shots from the Agrue place during a windstorm about 5 p. m. yesterday.

This morning two other persons living nearby, Harvey Sellers and his son, William, went to see the Agrues. They passed a team of horses roaming in a field, their harness dragging.

In the kitchen the table was set for six. Nearby lay Mrs. Agrue, shot in the head. She had been cleaning lettuce when she died.

The last of the corpses was not found until almost seven hours later.

The grandchild was found in the barn, shot in the back and face; Agrue a quarter of a mile

Ask Late Audit Of Clerk's Books

An audit of the books of the county clerk, William B. Rissler, for the year of 1940 and to date in 1941 was ordered by the Pettis county court in a late session Friday in order to help decide the present controversy over the retention of fees by the county clerk.

The court has claimed that Mr. Rissler retained fees received in his office that were not legally his, and asked that the amount in excess of fees legally his be returned to the county.

The order passed yesterday by the court states:

"In view of the condition of the accounts of the Clerk of the County Court of Pettis County as shown by the audit of the State Auditors for the years 1936, 1937 and 1939, and in view of the fact that there is a possibility of settlement of said accounts with William Bryan Rissler, Clerk of the County Court, it is ordered by this court that Forrest Smith, the State Auditor, be requested to have the books of the clerk of the county court audited for the year 1940 and to date in 1941, so that the county court may know the true condition of said books to date, and that a copy of this order be certified and mailed to the Honorable Forrest Smith, state auditor."

Cross Roads Comment
G. H. S.

He'd Make a Good Missourian—

A great many Americans, including myself, have had the idea that a fellow with a "Lord" tacked on to the front of his name was an austere, snobbish sort of person. After meeting and talking with one of these dignitaries at a luncheon in Kansas City, I have concluded that Lord Halifax (we all addressed him as Mr. Ambassador) is more of a mid-westerner than some of the corn-fed Missouri and Kansas notables who also broke bread with the Englishman.

Tables for the private party were set in an adjunct to the hotel dining room. This room had some fancy name I can't recall. Most of the guests were Missouri and Kansas newspaper men, all of them more proud of some handle to their name than the lord himself. There was a general and a colonel present, college presidents and deans, mayors, ex-governors of Kansas, a one-time presidential candidate (Alf Landon), a Missouri lieutenant governor, etc., etc.

I'd give a nickel to know what went through the minds of Henry Allen and William Allen White, Kansas journalistic sages, who listened to Lord Halifax answer a roundelay of questions. Perhaps they might write their thoughts but more than likely not, because what the ambassador said was "off the record." Newspaper men are respecters of this ethical formula.

No Wild-Eyed Emotionalism—

Plainly evident was the lack of war emotionalism in the remarks of this Englishman. Very deliberately, and in even tone of voice, he spoke of conditions in his country. There was something compelling and sincere about the man. He beat no verbal war drums. He was careful to avoid answering questions that might cloak him with bias.

"What about Joe Stalin and Russia?" someone asked. As Lord Halifax wrote down the question preparatory to answering it later, I heard his scarcely audible whisper to himself: "I wish I knew."

Not a "Stuffed Shirt"—

Later, when I shook hands with the ambassador and exchanged a few observations, I was impressed by his entire lack of forced cordiality. After you shake hands with hundreds of men in public life, you develop an uncanny awareness of their inane and pointless efforts to embrace you in their selfish orbits by faking beaming geniality. Not so, Halifax—as he democratically meets the high and low in civil life.

One of the best tributes we can give to this man is to call him, GENUINE.

• • •

Can You Prove You Are One?—

"I Am An American!"

Today, throughout the nation, millions will thus exclaim; for today is "I Am An American Day."

Adept at setting aside days of observance for this and that, we lose sight of the true significance of their purpose sometimes. Today we should re-dedicate ourselves to the meaning and importance of American citizenship—something that is casually taken for granted so often.

By rote and ritual we are made conscious of our precious rights of citizenship; but our salvation in the preservation of these rights goes beyond mere awareness. We must acquire understanding of and apply force to "faithfulness in the discharge of our duty as members of society."

When proudly boasting, "I Am An American," we should flavor the exclamation with a little self-analysis of our own personal contributions to the citizenship which we hold in high regard.

When we become Americans by deed, as well as by word, then and then only may we extend the hand of fellowship to the 2,500,000 young men and women of this country who have attained the age of 21 years and are now eligible to join the ranks of citizenship in the greatest democratic nation on the face of the earth.

Hold Your Fire—

"Men you are all marksmen—don't one of you fire until you see the white of their eyes." —Israel Putnam at the Battle of Bunker Hill, June 17, 1775.

That is the sort of military strategy many Americans propose today, those who are willing to do any firing at all, forgetting that the science of warfare has changed considerably. No longer do noble defenders of the land have an opportunity to see the white of the enemy's eyes, only monster tanks, fast-traveling jeeps, or horrifying dive-bombers.

The Ministerial Alliance Speaks Out—

Sedalia's Ministerial Alliance has become vocal in opposition to the present national and foreign military policy of the United States. But even in this group, as in the nation, there is divided sentiment.

Some there are, who will dispute the propriety of ministerial condemnation of "pressure groups" seeking to influence public opinion when by inadvertance, the ministers set themselves up at the same time as a modified group whose purpose is to direct public opinion in another channel.

Members of the alliance who voted for the resolution were inspired by most righteous motives. Their right to express themselves is a sacred privilege, notwithstanding that we disagree with some portions of their resolution.

Tomorrow—Cloudy With Rain—

Resolutions on touchy subjects have a way of breeding. Like the deluge that follows a clap of thunder we are likely to be in for quite a rainstorm of conflicting opinions "resolutely" expressed from now on.

With that prospect in mind, let us all raise our umbrellas of tolerance, put on our boots against the slippery mud and keep our equilibrium—both physical and mental.

Mechanical Parts Have Hot Argument—

Our sixteen-page tubular newspaper press was tied up Saturday afternoon. During one of its operations in producing the Capital edition, a plate cylinder refused to budge. Investigation revealed that a shaft had become so overheated it swelled up against the bearing. Some foreign material must have gotten into the journal. All the lubrication in the world would not pacify the steel shaft, so it just became hotter and hotter in protest. The bearing wouldn't yield, either. The mechanical argument over the foreign substance reached an impasse when the steel shaft became so hot that it swelled beond endurance. The powerful motor that had no part in the argument could no longer turn the unit. It had to quit, too. So the entire press failed to function normally.

Hot Tempers Are Like Hot-Boxes—

Organized human society is a good bit like our newspaper press. Composed of thousands of parts, when all work together they produce a superior product. But when one part becomes too emotional over intrusion of an outside substance it loses its temper. Hot-tempered people, just like hot machine parts, swell up with such indignation they jam the works. Then all the units are retarded in completing their given tasks.

Nation Needs Cool-Tempered Expert—

When this sort of thing happens to our press-room machinery, we call in an expert mechanic like Roy Brown, who calmly removes the mechanical irritation with hands and brain trained to the task. Repairs completed, all the other innocent parts roar in satisfaction as they resume their place in the complex production of this newspaper.

Just as disorganized machinery needs attention of a level-headed expert, so does our nation need the ministrations of calm, forceful leadership to unite the entire citizenry when too many units become hot-tempered.

Justice And Mercy

The problem presented by the peculiar sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses, whose children are taught to refuse to salute the national flag in school has met with various attempts at solution, none final.

It is encouraging to see that one attempt at solution has been blocked in the courts. It was a bad solution. A court at Nashua, New Hampshire sentenced three such school children to a reformatory for school "delinquency" growing out of this offense.

It is highly unlikely that sending children to a reformatory for complying with religious scruples taught them by their parents would ever solve anything. The state supreme court apparently felt that way, for it reversed the sentence. Within the limits of mercy thus assured by the court, the local school authorities may now seek their own solutions, which are almost certain to be if not completely satisfactory at least better than the reformatory.

• The Washington Merry-go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—About ten years ago Clarence Streit was covering Geneva for the New York Times. It was his special job to report on the League of Nations, often a very discouraging assignment.

Month after month he saw problems affecting the welfare of mankind come before the League—white slave traffic, opium control, the invasion of Manchuria. Month after month he heard statesmen representing one country or another rise to say that the paramount interests of the statesman's government would not permit him to concur.

And as time passed, Streit also heard the warning that the dicator nations sought to dominate the earth. He heard this warning grow from a whisper to a roar. And once while it was growing he sat down with a pencil and paper and added up all the resources and wealth of the democracies and compared them with the wealth of the dictatorships.

The comparison was astounding. The democracies controlled more than one-half the world's territory, 70 to 90 per cent of the world's resources, more than half the world's population. They controlled every raw material except silk, which was in the hands of Japan. Their power was tremendous.

The dictatorships, on the other hand, controlled next to nothing. Their resources were pitifully weak.

Therefore Streit concluded that the cause of all the world's fear of dictators was merely that the democracies would not pull together. On many major matters at Geneva, France and Britain usually were in opposite corners. Or when they did get together, the United States would not cooperate. Thus these big, bumbling, powerful democracies went through life missing every trick to make the world better, while the loud-talking, fast-moving, close-cooperating dictatorships grew in prestige and power.

English-Speaking Union

It was at about that time that Clarence Streit became definitely sold on the crusade to which he has now dedicated his life—union between the English-speaking democracies of the world.

Since then he has resigned from the New York Times. He has spent most of his time away from his family campaigning and speaking. He has scrimped his own living expenses, and out of them donated $5,000 of his own lecture fees to finance his organization of "Federal Union, Inc."

No one man has ever worked more industriously and unselfishly for the well-being of the English-speaking peoples than this 45-year-old newspaper man who grew up on the prairies of the midwest. He firmly believes that the United States cannot go to war every two decades to aid Great Britain, but that it must work with Great Britain to head off war in advance.

Streit was born in Missouri, stamping ground of isolationist Bennett Clark, and educated at Montana University, stamping ground of the equally isolationist Burton K. Wheeler. He had not been east of the Mississippi river until he enlisted as a private in the 18th Railway Engineers, one of the first units of the AEF to go to France.

Even before that, however, the first seeds of "Union Now" had been planted. Before Streit enlisted and just before the United States entered the war, he refused to sign a telegram sent by the students of Montana State University unequivocally supporting President Wilson; and next day published in the college paper this explanation:

"If we had said we urge you to make the entrance of the United States into the war dependent upon the definite agreement of the Allies to establish a league to enforce peace after the conflict is over, then I would have been among the first to say Aye."

Peace Machinery Sabotaged

After the war he remained in Europe, at first assigned to the Versailles peace conference, where the dream of a new peace machinery gradually was sabotaged before his eyes, later as Paris and Rome correspondent for the Philadelphia Public Ledger and The New York Times.

In Europe Streit gradually became convinced that the peoples of Germany, Italy, and southern Europe did not have the basic background for democratic government. Servants in Austria, for instance, fell on their knees and kissed his hand. Therefore the hope of the world, he concluded, lay in cooperation between Great Britain, the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

And with the United States, in the opinion of many people, now balancing on the edge of war, Streit has been especially active on Capitol Hill and with various members of the Administration, urging that now is the time to set the peace machinery for the post-war period. The United States, he argues, must not now make the same mistake of Woodrow Wilson in not exacting an advance pledge from Britain regarding the terms of future peace.

He Asks Questions

On his lecture trips, Streit reverses the usual formula of having the audience ask questions of the speaker. He asks the questions; in fact, conducts his own public opinion poll. One question he asks his audiences is:

"How many of you are sure the United States will not be drawn into the war?"

Only one hand has been raised in response to this—at a "Keep Out of War" meeting at Newark, N. J., where Streit debated Norman Thomas.

Another question is: "How many of you think the United States is going to get into the war?" This usually brings an affirmative response of 60 to 90 per cent, even in such isolationist states as Wisconsin.

He also asks:" How many of you think Britain cannot win without the United States?" This also brings an overwhelmingly affirmative response.

Another interesting question, an answer to Lindbergh, is: "How many of you think Britain and the United States together would lose the war?" Almost no one has agreed with Lindbergh that they would lose.

Finally Streit asks: "In view of our likelihood of getting into the war, how many of you believe we should begin organizing now for peace after the war?" The response to this is unanimous.

League Like 13 Colonies

However, the main point this crusading young newspaper man drives home to his audiences and in his talks on Capitol Hill is that the United States itself began as a league of friendship and found it did not work. Only a hard and fast union was able to keep the thirteen colonies together.

"The problem confronting the colonies," Streit argues, "was a problem of foreign policy. The areas around us at that time were foreign—French, Spanish and British. In some of the thirteen colonies more German was spoken than English.

"We solved that problem by union. It has proved the best, the firmest system of government in the world. Before that the thirteen colonies were embraced in a loose-knit league of friendship which lacked authority, was always at sixes and sevens.

"Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton, Adams, Madison—the men who founded so securely the American Union and made so great a success of this untried system of inter-state government—were all alive when the league of friendship existed. They tried first to make the league system work. They could do nothing with it.

"And our only hope for tomorrow is a firm union between the peoples grounded in the democratic system—the United States and the different parts of the British Empire. Only by such a union can we head off world war every two decades."

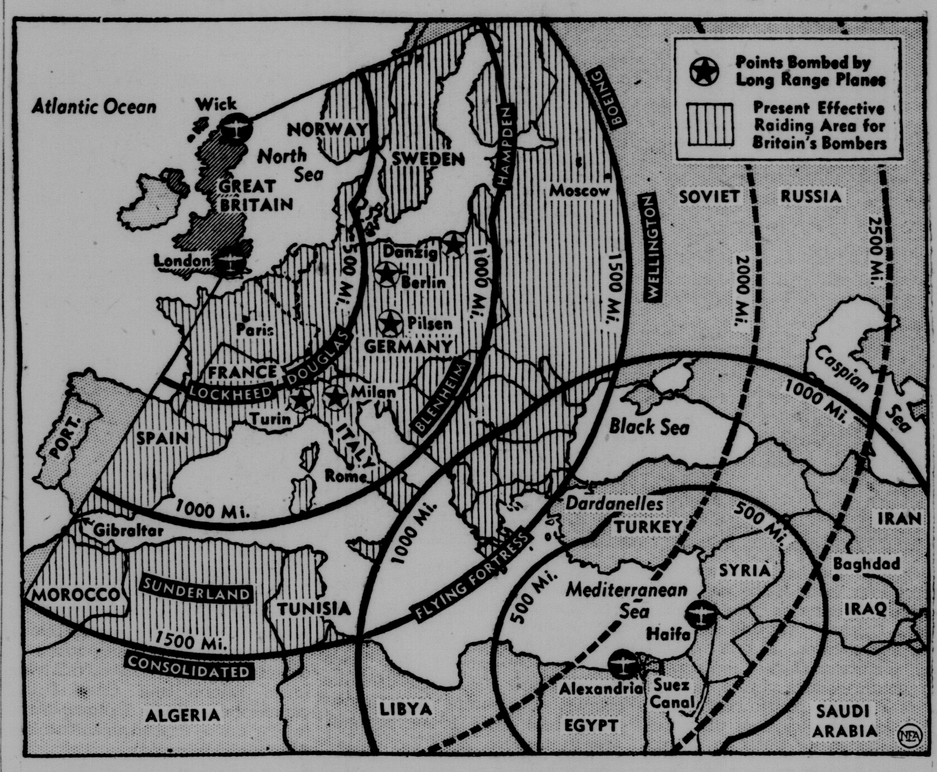
Long Range Bombers Boost British Raiding Radius



More long range bombers are Britain's need for an extended offensive to all parts of German-occupied Europe. Distance rings on map show how British bombers can strike objectives up to 1500 miles from England, then return, or fly on to land and refuel at a Near East base. Round-trip raiding limits are shown for some of the types of British and U. S.-built bombers now in use.

Puerto Rico Commission Merchant Wants Contacts With Local Firms

Interest of United States possessions in contacting firms in Sedalia and surrounding territory dealing with provisions to act as agents or distributors was shown in a letter received this week by Ellsworth Green, secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

The message, from A Fernandez Soto, commission merchant and importer and exporter, San Juan, Puerto Rico, asks for direct contacts with firms such as growers, exporters, brokers and manufacturers in general who would be interested in establishing commercial relations with the island.

"This island, as you know, is an American territory," states Mr. Soto, "for which reason merchandise is easily handled to and from Puerto Rico. In cases where the merchandise is to be sent by train to port of shipment and then by steamer, the only requisites are a through bill of lading and a steamship bill of lading. In cases where merchandise is to be shipped from port of shipment, only the steamship bill of lading is necessary."

Puerto Rico has for many years been considered an excellent market for North American products, and during the past few years it has ranked among the first five importers of American products, with a volume of about $100,000,000 annually.

Mr. Green said that he had contacted the American Disinfecting company and the Acme Broom factory of Sedalia in connection with the possible establishment of trade relations between the companies and Puerto Rico.

Precaution

Since the assasination of Abraham Lincoln, it has been the custom for the president and vise president of the United States never to expose themselves at the same time, if possible. They never ride the same train together, for instance.

During 1938, approximately 8,000,000 phonograph records were sold monthly in the United States.

'The Flame Of New Orleans' and 'Washington Melodrama' at the Fox theatre today and Monday

One of the best balanced pictures ever made is the way studio executives describe "The Flame of New Orleans" starting today at the Fox theatre. A best "balanced" picture might not mean much to picture-goers a phrase, however it is a telling factor in their enjoyment. In this case the studio concentrated on selection of supporting players as well as stars. Warning To The Public!

Don't let out of town roofing peddlers who come to Sedalia and set up a place of business for two or three months, unload a lot of SECOND AND THIRD GRADE SHINGLES on you.

Yes, they will tell you that they are just as good as any shingle that you can buy from your local merchants. DON'T BELIEVE SUCH SALES TALK!

If you are planning a new roof or the application of siding on your home—consult one of your local dealers who sells these materials. Let him explain the difference in the quality and cost of these materials. There is little difference in the PRICE, but a world of difference in the QUALITY.

If you want cheap roofing, your local merchants can get that grade material for you. They do not advertise it because it would go bad within a few years and cause a lot of trouble and hard feelings.

These local dealers intend to stay in business in Sedalia for a long time to come and they could not do so if they sold inferior grades of materials to the public.

Let a representative from a local firm measure your roof and give you an estimate on the number of squares of shingles necessary to complete the job. By doing this you will not have to pay for more material than is actually required to roof your property.

Shiny Star Is Embedded In Rock

A small rock with an almost perfect five pointed star barely large enough to be seen by the naked eye was found recently on the gravel road north of Georgetown by W. L. Reed, 1317 East Broadway.

The rock has a perfect quarter inch hole in it about a quarter of an inch deep. At the bottom of the hole there are lines giving the appearance of star beams and in the center a fraction of an inch above the bottom of the hole is the star. It has a silver shiny effect when placed in the sunlight.

The finding of the rock and upon being shown has many Sedalians asking what is the significance. Mr. Reed stated he would write to some university or an authority on rock formations to seek information regarding his treasure.

West African Tribe Greets Miss Hurlbut Ceremoniously

With gasoline at $1.00 a gallon in Angola, West Africa, Miss Mary W. Hurlbut, Congregational missionary of Sedalia, Missouri, and a teacher in a school for Ovimbundu girls under the American Board of Foreign Missions, has decided she must do most of her traveling to the villages either by "tepoia" (African hammock carried by two to four men) or on foot. Miss Hurlbut, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hurlbut, 206 West Seventh street, Sedalia, Missouri, has discovered that she is a very good walker!

One of Miss Hurlbut's longest trips, recites a story to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions of Boston, into the bush took four days. At her village destination women and girls from the whole area gathered for ten days to learn simple rules of health, cooking and receive religious instruction. It was right out in the land of the "raw heathen," where fear of evil spirits and polygamy flourished.

Sickness Prevalent

Everywhere there seemed sickness. A mother, with a terrified face that struck at the heart of Miss Hurlbut, was ill with fever as were her two children. A third had died the week before. The mission workers had no drugs with them but they gave the mother quinine, and the children soda, and later, epsom salts. The children were discovered to be suffering from intestinal parasites and the treatment of the missionaries relieved them.

Said the Ovimbundu pastor who was in Miss Hurlbut's party, "Did you notice the look on that mother's face? The awful fear you saw wasn't just because the children were sick but because she feared that their sickness was due not to natural causes but to the spirits."

After an evening meeting one night Miss Hurlbut said, "I notice that you are always praying for health. We are the answer to your prayers. God cannot answer your prayers for health unless you drain the holes where the mosquitoes breed and become fever carriers, and shut up the pigs that spread intestinal parasites."

This type of village cultivation, however, is really only a side line for Miss Hurlbut, her major job being a teacher in the fine school for Ovimbundu girls.

The associates of Miss Hurlbut, Dr. and Mrs. Henry S. Hollenbeck, succeeded in raising some celery, an unusual thing in Dondi where it is difficult to grow. When they cut it they always share it with Miss Hulrbut for whom it is a rare treat. One day Manuel, a lad who works in the garden, commented to a friend:

"Miss Mary is sure crazy about celery. She can't even wait for them to cook it. She eats it right down raw!"

Carries Own Bedding

On these trips Miss Hurlbut carries her own bedding, mosquito nets and much of her food. In the cooking lessons, the people, whose diet is meager, are taught how to stretch and vary it. For example, how to take the humble sweet potato and make out of it soup and cookies; or how to use soy beans as milk.

Several times Miss Hurlbut has been the first white woman to be seen by some isolated tribe. One such tribe met her with great ceremony. Even the chief came out decorated with shells, buttons, feathers and beads. These people annointed themselves with crude castor oil. They also rubbed it on their leather garments to keep them. Washing your clothes, they insisted, wore them out. So undoubtedly washing the body would do the same thing. Moral — Do not wash!

Superstition And Fear

Almost from the day of birth babies of this tribe have solid mush and relish choked down their little throats. As a result the babies have what amounts to a permanent stomach ache — if they don't die. Superstition and fear is everywhere. It is a terror which stalks daily. For if there is sickness or death the blame may be laid on you. If a brush fire starts and burns some of the chief's graveyard the person responsible for starting the original fire must be discovered and pay a fine of an ox or a pig. If this is not done the people believe that the bees won't make honey and the crops won't grow.

One night while on a visit to a distant strange tribe, not Ovimbundu, the drums began to beat throughout the darkness. A woman was ill. The witch doctor and the people were trying to drive out the evil spirits with drums, gourds, singing and violent shakings of the patient. But Miss Hurlbut knew it would all be of no avail for the poor woman was obviously in the last stages of tuberculosis.

On this particular trip the chief came one morning as breakfast was being eaten. Miss Hurlbut gave him a taste of wild fruit jelly. That afternoon word came that the chief was sick. He asked for medicine. His symptoms sounded like malaria but Miss Hurlbut had a moment of apprehension. Would the chief think she had poisoned him with the jelly? The fact that they sent to her for medicine even when there was a witch doctor right in the village seemed to indicate that they did not suspect her. The quinine sent restored the chief to health proving the efficacy of Miss Hurlbut's absentee treatment.

When Miss Hurlbut and her little party departed from this isolated, fear-ridden spot they left behind ten Christians, only one of whom was a woman. The old chief came to all the meetings and although not himself becoming a Christian urged his people to do so.

Miss Hurlbut was born in Omaha, Nebraska, and educated at Knox College and Teachers' College, Columbia university. She first went to Africa in 1924.

Dozen Drivers Qualify For Races

Decoration Day Auto Classic Will Have Plenty Speed

Pole Position Goes To Mauri Rose; The Outside Spot, Front Row, To Ben Shaw

By HAROLD HARRISON

INDIANAPOLIS, May 17—(AP)—Mauri Rose, a worker in the Allison Engineering Company's airplane engine manufacturing palnt here, today won the pole position for the Indianapolis motor speedway 500-mile race as an even dozen drivers qualified for the May 30 classic despite a high wind and chilling cold weather.

128.691 Miles An Hour

Rose, driving the same Italian Maserati in which Rene Lebugue of France finished tenth a year ago, reeled off his 10-mile qualifying jaunt at 128.691 miles an hour to barely nose out Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif., the pole favorite.

Rose had one lap at 130.152 miles an hour.

Mays' qualifying speed of 128.301 miles an hour gave him the middle position in the front row for the start of the race. The outside spot in the first row will go to Wilbur Shaw, of Indianapolis.

Shaw Averages 127.836

Shaw, also driving a Maserati—the same car in which he won the 1939 and 1940 races—roared around the windswept 2½-mile course at a speed of 127.836 miles an hour.

Rose's car is owned by Lou Moore, a former speedway driver, who also has two other cars entered. One,driven by Cliff Bergere, Hollywood, Calif., stunt man, also qualified at a speed of 123.890 miles an hour.

Ralph Hepburn Qualifies

Mays' teammate, Ralph Hepburn of Los Angeles, gained his place in the starting lineup, with a qualifying speed of 120.656 miles an hour.

One of Shaw's partners on the Mike Boyle team also qualified. That was Chet Miller of Detroit, who ran 10 miles at 121.540 miles an hour.

National Interscholastic High Hurdle Record Broken

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., May 17—(AP)—John Gelston Smith of Des Plaines, Ill., bettered the National Interscholastic record for the 200-yard (CQ) low hurdles today in the Illinois state high school track meet with a 21.9 seconds performance.

The existing national mark of 22.1 seconds was set by Don Pollom, Topeka, Kas., in 1938.

Junior Legion To Play at Boonville

The Junior American Legion team today will journey to Boonville, where it will play the Junior Legion team of that place in a "practice" session. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

Both teams will be in the new league which is being formed in central Missouri, and the game today will in no way affect the standing in the league. Little has been learned of the Boonville team other than that it is the first year for Legion baseball.

Manager Cecil Glenn announced he would start Stevens on the mound with Weller behind the plate. Lynch, who has been catching will accompany the team, but will probably not be used because of an injured hand.

Sedalia's team will go to Boonville by bus. All Legionnaires are requested to attend the game if possible.

Big One Caught

Mrs. Lester Williams, 705 East Eleventh street, is shown with her two prize catches from the Lake of the Ozarks on Sunday, May 11. The large fish is a seven and one-half pound jack salmon while the smaller is a three pound large mouth bass. Mrs. Williams was fishing in the "trestle branch" which is back water from the lake under the Missouri Pacific railroad trestle just east of Warsaw. She was fishing a short distance from the trestle when she made her catch.

Dahlgren's Home Run Beats Cards

Twelve Innings Are Needed With Both Teams Battling Hard

ST. LOUIS, May 17—(AP)—The New York Yankees let a good first baseman go when they shipped Babe Dahlgren to the Boston Braves.

Babe batted the Braves to a 6 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals today, driving in one run with a single and then smashing a homer with two men on base in the twelfth inning to win the game.

Always a fancy Dan in the field, Dahlgren handled 21 putouts, 13 of them coming in succession in one stretch.

Al Javery and Art Johnson shared honors with Dahlgren. Javery, making his first start of the season, matched veteran Lon Warneke in a tight pitchers' duel until he weakened in the tenth inning. Johnson, rookie lefthander, pitched 2⅔ innings of hitless ball in winding up the game.

The Braves took 1-run leads three different times without being able to hold their margin.

Merchants To Play Panthers At Elmer, Mo.

Gene Horner Will Take His First Turn On Mound Today

Today the Sedalia Merchants go out-of-town to play, meeting the Elmer Panthers at Elmer, Mo. The game is to be called at 2:30 o'clock, this afternoon. It will be the second official game of the 1941 season for the Merchants.

Sedalia's opener at Lebanon turned out to be a tough affair, with the local aggregation coming out on the short end of the score. However their loss was a stimulation to fight harder today and endeavor to start off on a winning streak.

Regardless of how the Merchants play today, they have no cinch against the Panthers. The opposition in the 1940 season came through with twenty victories compared to their five losses.

This week has been a steady workout for the Merchants. The players have been practicing hard in hitting, as well as fielding, and appear to show improvement at each practice session.

Gene Horner, Merchant twirler, will start his first game of the season today. Manager Harry Light announced Horner as the choice Saturday, believing weather conditions will be perfect for the veteran mound player, and named Jake Sumners to be on the receiving end of the battery.

Sedalia players will meet at Hugie's Cigar store at 9 o'clock and motor to Elmer. Players making the trip are: Overfelt, Adair, Thomas, McMillian, Barnes, Taylor, Light, Horner, Smith, Zey, Swisher, Livengood, Shores and Sumners.

Opening on May 29, there will be recreational programs in Sedalia second to none in Missouri, supervised by the WPA recreational supervisors, and under the sponsorship of the Sedalia Park Board and the Sedalia School Board. The programs this summer are more extensive than any previous year, and it is expected more than 1,500 Sedalians, both young and old, will participate.

Already, several supervisors have been certified in Sedalia for the work, who will be under Tom "Dolly" Farris, Sedalia director, and under Carl J. Pike, who is the district director over ten counties in central Missouri. These men have met with the park board and the school board, presented their plans, which have been accepted.

At the parks, and on the school grounds, baseball will be played by the youngsters. City leagues are being arranged, for which trophies will be given the winners. For the adults, every kind of recreation is being arranged, so they likewise can find something to do with their spare time.

Certainly if anyone in Sedalia desires to get exercise and find some kind of athletic diversion, they can get it by going to the various parks. There is no cost whatsoever, to anyone who desires to get into the whirl of good clean fun.

Already plans are being outlined for the coming fall and winter months, so when the time rolls around everything will be in readiness.

It is wonderful, to know when you are seventy-nine, you still can cut the buck and have the respect of millions of baseball fans. Just look at Connie Mack—Saturday, Philadelphia honored him—a baseball park which carried the name of Shibe Park has been changed to Connie Mack stadium. It is something, that will for years to come, remind those Philadelphia baseball-loving fans of one of the greatest baseball managers in history.

Baseball's highest officials were all present, they all made speeches along with the Philadelphia business men, city officials and what have you, but when it came Connie Mack's turn, he was so full of emotion he could hardly talk—but who wouldn't be, when you are being recognized as baseball's outstanding figure.

Something to think about—Connie Mack is one manager who never wears a uniform on the bench, but he has the respect of every baseball player in the major leagues, both National and American.

Last week, I called attention to the fact the Conservation club had but two members at a meeting which was to have been for the election of officers. This week I have heard much comment about this, and many suggestions have been offered to rejuvenate the local organization.

Why not hold a meeting each month, whether there is any business to come up or not. It not then make it a fish-fry, something with entertainment, something to really make the meetings interesting. Have some outstanding sportsman come in and give a real talk.

Yes, why not the Pettis County Conservation club sponsor some fishing or hunting activities and award prizes, trophies and such to the outstanding sportsmen, and the sportswomen as well, for their work in the organization. Make these contests interesting.

There is no reason why this club should not be the leader in the state of Missouri. We are centrally located, and have every advantage to do something to help conservation of wild life, so you good members get together and give it a good going over.

What has become of the trap-shooters, who used to really go in for the sport in Sedalia. I have been asked by several men who are interested in this if a trap-shooting club couldn't be organized in Sedalia again. There used to be one of the finest groups in Missouri, who had a trap at Liberty park, and some real shoot records were made in Sedalia.

Some time ago a club had a trap at the old Katy Shop park, but it "busted up" and later several took up the sport out west of town, but nothing has been heard of them of late.

August Busch Goes Back To Horse Racing

Fifteen Years Ago Famous Family Gave Up Racing Horses

ST. LOUIS, May 17—(AP)—August A. Busch, Jr., St. Louis sportsman, is going to take another whirl at thoroughbred horse racing.

Fifteen years ago the noted brewing family had disappointing luck with several promising prospects. They said never again.

But the young millionaire, an expert horseman himself, couldn't resist any longer and recently disclosed he would campaign two horses at the Fairmount (Ill.) park during the coming season opening May 30.

The horses are full brother and sister, Color Brigade and Miss Belleau, two and three years old, respectively. They were sired by Color Sergeant, owned by Mrs. Lula Long Combs of Kansas City.

They are under the training of the Nebraska turfman, Maurice Covault, who hopes to start the colt in the opening day 2-year-old race.

The Busch name has been absent from the turf since 1928. Chief Uncas carried the Busch colors in the 1925 Kentucky Derby but was beaten in the stretch.

Young Busch is vice-president and general manager of the Anheuser-Busch Brewery Co.

Missouri Tigers Bow To Oklahoma

NORMAN, Okla., May 17—(AP)—Oklahoma's Sooners stayed in the race for the Big Six baseball crown today by defeating Missouri's Tigers, 4 to 2.

While the defending champions ended their season today, the Tigers still must play a two-game series with third-place Iowa State. A double win for the Tigers would give them the title while a split would result in a first-place tie with Oklahoma.

Each team has lost two games. Missouri, which won the series opener here yesterday, 4 to 2, in 10 innings, has eight victories and Oklahoma has six.

Sooner hurler Virgil Ward let the Tigers down today with only two hits and one earned run.

Score by innings:

Missouri	100 100 000—2-2-4
Oklahoma	010 030 000—4-9-6

Grand Old Man Of Baseball, Connie Mack, Is Honored

PHILADELPHIA, May 17—(AP)—Baseball's big-wigs and 15,000 fans honored Connie Mack today and neither the threat of rain nor the Athletics' 8-5 loss to the Detroit Tigers could detract from the elaborate affair.

The 79-year-old owner-manager of the A's was praised in speeches and presented with gifts by Philadelphia business and professional leaders.

Bands Play, Speeches Made

Bands played in the flag-draped ball park which this afternoon dropped its old name of Shibe Park and became Connie Mack stadium. Pennants of all Mack's championship teams were prominently displayed.

Connie, an American League fixture for 40 years, took his customary nap in the stadium office midway in the celebration which began in the mayor's office and continued at the game.

When he appeared on the field the crowd roared its welcome to the tall, white-haired sportsman.

Choked With Emotion

The Athletics' manager, choked up with emotion, was barely able to speak when he thanked the Philadelphia citizens' committee for the gifts and the fans for turning out to honor him.

Among the guests introduced to the crowd were Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's high commissioner; Will Harridge, president of the American League; Walter O. Briggs, Jr., vice-president of the Detroit club; William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh National League Pirates; Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians; Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees; Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Braves; Eddie Collins, general manager of the Boston Red Sox; President Gerry Nugent of the Philadelphia Nationals; Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox; and Tommy Richardson, president of the Eastern League, and Actor George M. Cohen, who sang his specially-written song, named after Mack.

Tigers Win Dual Meet With Kansas

Take Eleven Firsts Of Fifteen Events To Score 80 to 51

LAWRENCE, Kas., May 17—(AP)—The University of Missouri won 11 of 15 first places to defeat the University of Kansas, 80 to 51, in a Big Six conference dual track and field meet today.

Gordon Crosby, Missouri, set a new meet record in the 440-yard dash. He was clocked in 49.3 seconds shearing six-tenths of a second from the old mark established by Wade Green of Kansas in 1936. He was hard pressed by Bob Tracy, Missouri, and Kenny Hamilton, Kansas.

Walters Isn't Bothered

Don Walters, Tiger runner who had been bothered with a pulled leg muscle since the Kansas relays, won the 100-yard dash in 9.9 seconds and the 220 in 21.7.

Bob Stoland, versatile Jayhawker, was the meet's high scorer with 15 points. He tied for first in the high jump, won the broad jump, and was second in the low and high hurdles.

Jimmy Johnson, Missouri, was first in the high and low Hurdles. Elmer Aussieker, Missouri, won the shot put with a heave of 47 feet 8⅝ inches and also the discus event with a throw of 136 feet 11½ inches.

Edwards Kansas Winner

Dick Edwards, Kansas, outdistanced his rivals in the mile and two-mile runs. Ralph Schaake, big Jayhawker, scored nine points by winning third in the high and low hurdles and the javelin throw, seconds in the shotput and the discus.

The Missouri mile relay team of Walter St. Denis, Marshall Reeves, Bob Tracy and Gordon Crosby won the event in 3:25.1.

King Cole Wins The Historic Withers Mile

NEW YORK, May 17—(AP)—Flashy King Cole won the historic Withers Mile at Belmont park today, and there was a horse-laugh from Whirlaway's barn.

For, in spite of an easy four-length victory in this annual classic for three-year-olds, neither Ogden Phipps' handsome standard bearer nor the eight others who chased him home showed anything to worry "Whirly" in his campaign for the triple crown which reaches its climax in the Belmont Stakes June 7.

Sixth Inning Outburst Wins For Senators

Browns Into Early Lead, But Fail To Maintain The Hold

WASHINGTON, May 17—(AP)—Washington hammered four St. Louis pitchers for 13 hits today to register a 12 to 7 victory, producing six runs in a hectic sixth inning to take the lead for the first time. The Browns mauled a quartet of Washington pitchers for 14 hits.

The Browns spurted into a 4 to 0 lead at the end of the second inning and, after the Nationals scored two runs in the third, Chet Laabs sent St. Louis into a 6 to 2 lead in the fourth with a home run, scoring Johnny Berardino ahead of him. Berardino smashed four successive hits before leaving the game in the fifth due to a twisted left knee.

Washington scored another brace of runs in the fourth on Cecil Travis' triple and Jake Early's home run. The Browns scored again in the fifth but Washington produced two runs in the fifth before staging its sixth inning outburst.

Sedalia's starting lineup is indefinite due to baccalaureate services this afternoon which will be attended by several members of the team. However as soon as these services have been concluded the team members will report to the park and take part in the game.

Book Club For Boys And Girls

While everyone is talking about defense of America, the children's librarian conceived the idea of having a book club for the boys and girls this summer to read about "Us as Americans." This club will be known as the U. S. A. Club. "Today as never before our young patrons have a right to know what our American heritage is. They have a need to know that other peoples in other times have thought our freedom and our democracy worth defending."

The rules for membership in the club will be simple. Every child is eligible from the fourth grade through the freshman year of high school. There will be reading lists posted including books on great Americans, America today, American neighbors; books of children in other countries will be listed as America's friends. The club members will be given red membership cards upon which will be printed their names and the titles of their books. Each time finish a book, they will be given a United States flag sticker to affix on their cards.

Those interested please register with the children's librarian, Miss Mary Dix Van Doran.

Eldorado Springs To Hold Home Coming

The fourth annual Eldorado Springs home coming will be held at Eldorado Springs, Mo., on Sunday, May 25, according to word received in Sedalia by former residents of that place. A basket dinner picnic will be enjoyed.

Plant Flowers On Court House Lawn

Petunias, Coleus, Ageratum, Hydrangeas and Spireas are being planted in front of the Pettis county court house this week under the sponsorship of the Sedalia garden clubs, as a part of that organization's drive to beautify the court house grounds.

The ruling recently made by the court prohibiting socials of any kind or walking on the lawn has proved its value, and the crop of grass grown on the grounds this year is the finest in several years.

Main Street Merchants Have Stamp Plan

At a recent meeting of the Main Street Home-Owned Business Association it was decided to start a Main Street Stamp Plan. Friday the merchants put this plan into effect.

With each purchase of ten cents or more the merchants who entered into the plan give stamps and with the first stamp the purchaser receives a book, which, when filled, will be redeemable for $1 in merchandise at any of the participating Main Street stores.

The merchants call it a share the profit plan in that its redeemable value in merchandise is 2 per cent of the purchases which the buyer has made.

Mrs. Clara Wilkinson, a former Sedalian, in recent years a buyer for Bullocks in Los Angeles, was the subject of a feature story in the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express, Thursday, May 15, written by Agnes McCay of the newspaper staff.

The story reads:

"If you had worked from the time you were twelve years old what would you do when the time came that you could retire and live nicely on your earnings?

"You might give that a thought or two while we're telling you what one woman is doing. Clara Wilkinson, long an expert, high salaried buyer for one of Los Angeles' major department stores, is farming from six in the morning until the sun goes down at night . . . and it isn't because she wants to make money; she's not concerned in the least about that.

"But why, after 39 years of hard work, does Clara Wilkinson want to get up at the crack of dawn to feed the chickens, turkeys, geese, rabbits, cows and horses, and do the hundred of other back-breaking jobs to be found on a 75-acre ranch? She could have retired to a life of luxurious rest. She has the answer, so we'll let her tell it.

Own Bosses

"From the age of 12, I have worked for other people," she explained. "My husband and I have looked forward for years to the day that we could work for ourselves. . . be our own bosses and do as we please. But we knew we would have to keep occupied—that we should have something that would compel us to be active. An old machine gets rusty if you don't use it and I don't intend to let old age catch up with me in a rocking chair."

"Well, say we, all you need do to convince yourself that she is as happy as a lark, is to see her in regulation men's overalls, showing her "city friends" over Stonehurst, the beautiful 75-acre ranch she and her husband bought when they retired last March.

"The story of this modern woman of today would make a thrilling movie scenario for it is jam-packed with human interest, heart aches and victory. It's the story of a little girl who undertook the support of her mother at the age of 12, and through her initiative, hard work and thrifty habits, finished her years of labor, the master of her soul and all she surveys.

"Lutman, Missouri, the town in which she was born, was named after her father, a respected physician and merchant of the little community. Had he lived, she would not have had to try her wings so young. It was a matter of necessity, though, and she left school to take a job in a Sedalia, Missouri, shoe factory.

"In a few weeks she was foreman of the "lacing table" and her salary was $8 a week. After two years in the shoe factory, she managed to get more schooling while staying in the country with her grandparents. At 16, she was back in Sedalia, "dispensing sodas" as she called it, in a drug store.

"Romance came along about this time and marriage followed. Said she, as we sat in her beautiful living rooms overlooking the rolling hills of Stonehurst, "We lacked $17 of having anything. Mr. Wilkinson didn't even have his wedding suit paid for!"

Runs Legs Off

"Few people would give up an $8 a week job for one that paid only $6 but Clara Wilkinson did, because she wanted to get into merchandising.

"I ran my legs off," said she. "If it wasn't one thing upstairs, it was two or three downstairs. You know," she continued, "back in those days the stores didn't have one ready made dress. They had coats, suits and skirts and waists. Long voile skirts with taffeta petticoats were all the vogue and one of my duties was to shake out those taffeta petticoats every day so they wouldn't crack!"

"After 15 years in that one store she started for Los Angeles, with a "neat little bank account" and loads of ambition to better herself. In no time, she landed a job in one of the important local stores.

Qu'ck Success

"One year from the time she left Sedalia, she started on her first New York buying trip. In the 18 ensuing years, she made 72 trips to New York for this same store. buying millions of dollars worth of high priced merchandise.

"Thirty-three years seems a long time to wait for one's dream to come true, but to Clara Wilkinson, it was worth everything she went through. More than $20,000 has gone into Stonehurst in the Forest of Arden, since the Wilkinsons bought it. Nothing is lacking in the way of city comforts. The 10-room house is furnished as a country house should be . . . knotty pine walls, large braided wool rugs made especially to harmonize with the setting, and a large granite fireplace which casts a bewitching glow over the lovely room when dusk falls.

"Surely this is paradise for Clara Wilkinson, the little girl who started working when she was only 12 . . the woman who refuses to permit 'old age to catch up with her in a rocking chair'."

semi-official French sources as expressing great astonishment that President Roosevelt interpreted Petain's remarks as "putting French colonies at the disposal of Germany."

(At a press conference today, Secretary Hull said enough facts had reached the state department to support entirely the President's expression of American apprehension over Berlin-Vichy collaboration.)

Senator Reynolds, chairman of the military committee, said in an interview that before making any move to seize French colonies, the United States should offer to take them over in payment of the French war debt.

If the Vichy government declined to consider this, he said, it would indicate that the Berlin government "is seeking to acquire territory in the western hemisphere."

Murray, declaring tht this country should "take time by the forelock," asserted that "we should not wait, as some countries have, until it is too late.

Tension Some Relaxed

VICHY, France, May 17.—(AP)—French-American relations, which reached the point of tension yesterday after statements by President Roosevelt and Marshal Petain, seemed tonight to have relaved, at least from the French standpoint, as the result of a series of semi-official French explanations.

In Vichy the situation now appears to be simply this:

1. France is negotiating with Germany the details of extended collaboration in which the Nazis call a new European order.

2. The United States, through Mr. Roosevelt's statement of Thursday evening, has advised France as a friend that the French situation as a result of the armistice is understood, but that if the French position is modified by the present German negotiations in such a way as to direct French cooperation eventually against the United States, the American government will have to reconsider its position.

3. The French insist that negotiations up to the present relate only to affairs concerning France and Germany and in no way affect relations between France and any other foreign government, particularly the United States.

These French explanations appear to have gone far toward calming rumors current in Vichy for the past 24 hours that the United States was ready to break off diplomatic relations, that all Americans had been warned to be ready to leave France on short notice, and that U. S. Ambassador notice, and that U. S. Ambassador back to Washington quickly for consultation and a "vacation."

Condition Less Favorable

The condition of B. F. Warren, who has been seriously ill for several months, was not so favorable Saturday.

DOWN TO BEDROCK

Philosophy of healing must be built upon solid foundation. Chiropractic philosophy of health is based on the bedrock fact that the function and health of every part is dependent upon a normal nerve supply. This is a fundamental fact no one can deny. If nerves control ALL function, is it not logical that in treating ill persons that the nerves be given FIRST consideration? That is what chiropractors do.

Dr. Roy Keller

We realize that there are many conditions which influence the nerves and we are well acquainted with them and direct our treatment to remove any factor which interferes with the nerves and their normal function. In the final analysis it is the nerves which must be influenced so any treatment that does not take this into consideration is not "bedrock" treatment. If you want sound, sensible treatment based upon the most fundamental fact in healing philosophy, see your chiropractor.

neth B. Huff, agricultural engineer of the Missouri Extension Service.

The big portable stage will be rolled into the auditorium tent as soon as the canvas clears the ground. As soon as electrical connections are completed, Evelyn Bloome, show home economist, with C. Agnes Wilson, REA regional home economist and Madonna Fitzgerald, home management specialist of the Missouri Extension Service, will start setting up the household equipment for use during the demonstrations of electrified homemaking. The stage is completely electrified with its own pressure water system, electric ranges, refrigerators, water heaters, room warmer, and a host of smaller appliances designed to make home tasks easier.

Running Water

Automatic pressure water systems on the farm, and modern plumbing for the farm bathroom and kitchen, are essentials of the modern farm plant. They are perhaps the greatest single benefit of rural electrification. Many complete systems will be demonstrated for the visiting farm families at the show. Not only does the water system add to the home, but it may contribute to increased farm income through its applications to farm productions.

Everybody Welcome

T. J. Raines and Tom Briscoe, presidents of the Central Missouri Electric and Co-Mo Electric Cooperatives, respectively, emphasize the desire of their organizations, and REA, for all the farmers in the surrounding area, including Saline, Pettis, Cooper, Morgan, Moniteau and Benton counties where the cooperatives have electric lines, to come to this big free show. "While the program is filled with demonstrations, throughout the two-day stand, that would interest everyone, we want to assure those who can only come to one or two meetings that they will be welcome. We want them to come whether they are now using electricity or not," said Mr. Raines and Mr. Briscoe.

Heralds Foreign Trade Week

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, asserting that international trade in a world "dominated by totalitarianism" would be merely a weapon for aggression, declared tonight the United States must defend Democratic principles and "continue its leadership in the preservation and promotion of liberal economic policies."

"Only through that leadership" the chief executive said in a full statement on national foreign trade week, "can this country fulfill its responsibility in the rebuilding of a world economy from the chaos into which it has been plunged by destructive trade restrictions, born largely of greed and unreasoning fear and by ruthless aggression."

Secretary of State Hull will deliver a trade week address over the NBC at 8:30 p. m., Central Standard time, tomorrow. Several hundred business, civil and governmental organizations will take part in observances designed to promote commerical relations between the United States and friendly foreign countries.

Trading Light On Stock Market

NEW YORK, May 17—(AP)—The stock market today emerged from a generally depressing week with mild recoveries sprinkled over coppers, rails, steels, oils and specialties.

Persistence of inflationary ideas in Wall Street, despite indications the administration was studying an "all-out" price "ceiling" as a means of stemming soaring living costs was thought by brokers to have inspired a little short covering and investment buying.

Many customers gave the market a wide berth because of the week-end recess, growing international tension, fears of a new crisis in the domestic soft coal mining dispute and expectations the railway brotherhoods would come out next week with demands for higher pay wage boosts by General Motors, Ford and other prominent industries involving millions of dollars annually also aroused doubts regarding future dividends.

Transfers of 140,540 shares were the smallest since August 24, last, and compared with the preceding Saturday's lively turnover of 377,170.

Among stocks ending on the upside were Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Republic Steel, Texas Corp., Continental Oil, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case and Sperry.

A new low since 1938 was posted for Consolidated Edison. General Motors was a shade off and Chrysler unchanged.

Wheat and Corn Both Sag Slightly

CHICAGO, May 17—(AP)—Wheat traders who bought earlier in the week on the stimulus of higher crop loan legislation turned sellers today as the market sagged almost a cent a bushel.

Prices retreared to levels more than two cents below the 12-months peaks established early Thursday, eliminating about half of the week's maximum gain.

Uncertainty about the actual 1941 loan rate, despite passage of legislation calling for 85 per cent of parity loans, prompted profit taking. Increased marketings in some localities, favorable crop reports and concern as to availability of storage space for the new crop were additional unsettling factors.

Wheat closed ⅝ to ¾ lower than yesterday, May 99¼. July 97⅞ to 97¾; corn unchanged to 1⅛ down, May 71 to 71¼, July 72⅜ to 72⅞; oats ⅝ to ½ off; soybeans ¼ to 1 higher; rye unchanged to ½ lower and lard 3 to 5 higher.

Here's another large, fussy William McKinley period home. Its advantages are its commodious rooms, its large closets, generous surrounding grounds, good location and well developed trees.

It is probable that well over $15,000 for structure alone would be required to duplicate in modern construction the space available in this house. . . . What can be done to save this valuable space and still not live in a Spanish-War period atmosphere?

We can get rid of the first obvious antique—the big porch. We can fill out the ell-shaped pocket in the structure with a modern type of protected porch which will give us good winter sunlight and which has a sufficient window area to provide a good summer screened porch. We can then remove the useless attic dormer on the front, eliminate the pockets around the eave, build a new bay window, and we have preserved our valuable space in modern style.

A few more touches, such as modern windows and shutters and an inexpensive stock millwork front entrance, complete the picture.

The basis of every Colonial type home is a rectangular shape . . . and no matter how badly original detail has been handled, there is always a hope for the old home as long as the basic shape is correct.

This house is too young to be Victorian and too drab to be Colonial. It belongs to the "in-between" period.

Neglect, old-style windows and a poorly designed porch seem to be the only exterior weaknesses. These are easily remedied.

Due to the fact that the house has been given a new overcoat of wood siding, and since we are changing the old windows to a Colonial type, it is easy to move the door from the right side to the center.

Given a new entrance, we have America's favorite type of architecture—a center-entrance New England Colonial.

Shutters at the windows and two porch extensions—one on either end—have helped to reduce the tall, slim line of the original structure. There is no way to guess from finished appearance that the entire property was not designed and built at one time.

Three To Make Ready

By W. H. Pears

Copyright 1941, NEA Service, Inc.

YESTERDAY: Paula and Tony are determined to keep Chris out of trouble. They enlist the help of Dr. Lud, who explains that Kilo's uncle, Big Barney Sherwood, is looking for an excuse to oust Dr. Van Horn, replace him with a hand-picked politician. If the League-Fraternity fight continues, Sherwood will use that. En route home, Dr. Lud surprises Paula by telling her that Tony loves her. She knows it is true.

* * *

PAULA TAKES A TRICK

CHAPTER VI

"IT'S not true, it's not true," Paula told herself over and over. "Why, Tony would laugh at the idea!"

For hours she had been tossing estlessly on her bed, trying to erase Dr. Lud's words from her mind. But the more she thought about it the less sure she was. Had she been so blinded by love for Chris that she couldn't see how Tony felt?

Paula sat up in bed, moonlight silvering her slim shoulders. Memories pushed in on her—the eager way Tony's fingers sought hers; the wistful light in his brown eyes when she caught his gaze on her; his stubborn refusal to date any of the Gamma Tau girls.

It all added up; Paula couldn't deny that. She buried her face in her pillow, and a fierce determination came over her never, never to hurt Tony . . .

* * *

THE next morning was cloudy and cool. Paula put on the blue wool dress Chris liked so well. She hid the ravages of her sleepless night with make-up and set off across the campus. She hoped she didn't look too much like a huntress, for her mind was made up to snatch Chris away from Kilo even if she had to club him.

She caught glimpses of Tony during the day, but she managed to avoid conversation with him. Late in the afternoon she met Chris strolling across the campus.

"Hey, wait up for a gal," she called to him.

Chris turned, an unreadable expression in his fire-blue eyes. Paula couldn't tell whether he was glad to see her or not.

"Hi, Paulie. How're things and stuff?"

"So, so, podner," Paula drawled. "How's the lone ranger?"

"It's exam time, Paula," he replied. "Old Christopher grindeth his wits."

Paula sensed the apology in his voice, but let it pass. "How about buying me a coke for old-time's sake?"

"Well . . ." Chris rubbed the end of his nose in embarrassment. "I'd like to, Paulie, but I've already promised . . ."

Paula said lightly, "Oh, well, in that case . . ." But a lump rose to her throat, a lump composed one part of anger and one part of hurt. "Some other time."

"Hey, wait, pal," Chris said, catching her arm. "Don't be like that. I'm not standing you up, honest. Meet me tomorrow afternoon, will you?"

Paula's pride wanted to snap a crisp "No!" at him, but her heart would have none of it. "If you really want me to, Chris."

"You betcha, Paulie!" He flashed his reckless grin at her in the old familiar way. "So long."

* * *

AT the house a letter awaited her, a letter which she took along when she went to meet Chris the next afternoon.

In no mood to talk over the din of a juke box, Paula vetoed the Sweetland and suggested a walk along Tinker's Creek. With the sunshine warm in her hair and Chris moving long-strided at her side, Paula's confidence returned.

They walked nearly a mile without saying much, then Chris flopped himself on the bank of the creek and said, "What is this, Paulie, a marathon?"

Paula found a place by his side. "Sissy!"

"Been seeing Tony?" Chris asked casually.

"Some," Paula replied, hating to shatter these precious moments with more serious matters. "We had a talk with Dr. Lud the other night."

"About what?" Chris demanded. "I never could see why you and Tony always idolized that guy."

"He's honest, Chris," Paula said, remembering with a pang Lud's warning about Tony. "When he tells you something you can believe it."

Chris scowled. "Such as?"

"The League," Paula burst out. "Chris, did you ever hear of Big Barney Sherwood?"

"I've not only heard of him," Chris boasted, "I've met him. He was up to see Kilo and he let me drive his 12-cylinder car. He's a real guy, Paulie. Nobody tells Big Barney what to do."

* * *

PAULA'S heart sank. How could she ever make Chris see the truth—that Big Barney was an unscrupulous politician and not a man to be admired like Dr. Van Horn or Dr. Lud?

"Chris, will you listen to the truth about Big Barney?"

"How do I know it's the truth? A lot of crazy rumors don't mean anything."

"Then you've heard them?"

"Oh, sure, all this stuff about Big Barney trying to give Van Horn the boot so he can put in his own man and do a little grafting on the new buildings. Kilo says that's all hokum."

"Chris, don't you see? The League's trying to put Dr. Van Horn on the spot!"

"So what?" Chris demanded. "Van Horn's an old fogey. Big Barney'll hire someone that'll take the fraternities down off their high horse."

Paula said scornfully, "And you're working with Kilo to put over a dirty deal like that?"

Chris chuckled. "Now don't get yourself in an uproar, Paulie. The League's out to get the Greek-letter outfits, not Van Horn."

"That's what you think, but you're being used as a tool."

Chris got to his feet, his mouth tight-drawn. "I think we'd better be going back, Paulie."

"No, wait, Chris." Paula caught his sleeve and pulled him back. "You're only being stubborn. You don't care anything about the League. It's just a lark for you."

"Maybe it is," Chris admitted. "But I get a boot out of it, and I can't see any harm in—"

"That's just it; there may be harm. I know you, Chris. You'd hate yourself if you got mixed up in some political mess." Tears filled Paula's eyes. "Think of Tony and me. We're your friends. We care a lot what happens to you."

"Why, Paulie . . ." His big hands were gentle on her trembling shoulders. "I—I never saw you like this. What's the matter?"

Paula thought, "Oh, Chris, why must you be so blind!" Aloud she said, "It's nothing, Chris. It's just that I'm afraid for you. You're such a grand person and I—I mean, oh!" She buried her face in his coat and sobbed.

* * *

PAULA fumbled in her pocket, brought out the letter. "Read it."

A moment later Chris handed it back to her. "You—you did this for me, Paulie? Why?"

"Because—because . . . oh, I know you can write, but you'll need practical experience. Dad does business with this big New York publishing house. I told him if he could find an opening to let me know. Chris, I'm sorry if I've meddled, but . . ."

"Paulie," Chris spoke gravely, "will they try to boss me a lot?"

"I—I'm sure they won't, Chris. If they do you can quit. But don't you see, if you get into trouble here Dad can't recommend you for the job?"

Chris took a deep breath. "Maybe it's worth a try, Paulie."

"Then you'll give up the League?"

Chris said softly, "I think you're a very swell girl."

"Oh, Chris . . ."

Europe's War Booms Bolivia's Business

EL POTOSI, 20,289-foot peak pictured on Bolivia's stamp above, is the site of a business boom. War in Europe has increased demand for tin, and mines on the peak are being worked at top speed to meet that demand.

One of few nations of the world to profit by the conflict, Bolivia produces metals necessary for war industries. Ninety-eight per cent of Bolivia's exports are metals, including tin, antimony and tungsten. Exports for 1940 were almost 50 per cent greater than in 1939.

During the period of Spanish domination of the country, Bolivian mines produced more than $2 billion in gold. The Spanish considered tin worthless, and today the dump heaps they built yield a large percentage of the nation's tin output.

The world's search for rubber also turns attention to Bolivia. Before 1910, South America's rubber, including that produced in Bolivia, was important in world production. Later, Far Eastern sources replaced wild rubber of the western hemisphere. Now there are indications that the Latin American industry may regain its former position, as war menaces the East Indies.

Speeches And Music At Shop Meet Friday

Address Given In Interest Of The Community Chest

Another of the very popular meetings of the Sedalia Business Men and Missouri Pacific Shop Employes, was held at the shops at noon, May 16. A large number of the business men of Sedalia attended this meeting, together with all employes of the shops.

J. L. Curry, chief booster, presided and introduced the speakers who were George Parker of the Holland Furnace Company, and Albert Zurcher of Zurcher's Jewelry Company.

Mr. Parker spoke of the origin of his firm which was founded in 1900 and in 1905 started out on the branch plan. At that time it was the smallest company in the furnace business and had about 500 competitors but has grown to where it is now the largest company with 225 competitors and in going from the bottom to the top has lost about half its competition. Mr. Parker compared the employes of the shop to his own line of business, telling them they were salesmen just as he is, they have Missouri Pacific service to sell and he has Holland Furnaces for sale. Mr. Parker also spoke of the new furnace cleaning machine his company is installing in Sedalia which would enable them to clean furnaces at a lower cost.

Albert Zurcher of the Zurcher Jewelry store gave a most interesting talk on the origin of diamonds, tracing their history from the time they were first worn as an amulet or charm up to the present time when they are worn for their beauty and value.

Talk On Chest Appeal

J. L. Rosenthal, representing the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, spoke with reference to the Community Chest appeal to be made May 26, 27, and 28, the funds collected to be distributed among the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army and the Melita Day Nursery. Mr. Rosenthal spoke of the need of these organizations and the work they were doing in this community and of how much they deserved support. Mr. Rosenthal mentioned that a committee would be set up in the various organizations to handle the details of this appeal and asked the employes of the shop to support this as liberally as possible as they have always done in the past.

Mrs. Alberta Zernickow of the Cole's Women's Shop and Morris Thomas, gave several vocal selections which were enjoyed by all present and which added much to this meeting.

G. T. Callender, superintendent of the shops, spoke briefly of the purpose of these business men's day meetings, how they were originated as an outlet for the business men of Sedalia and surrounding community to become better acquainted with the employes of the Missouri Pacific shop and to give them an opportunity of advertising their merchandise to the shopmen.

In closing the meeting Mr. Callender thanked all those who took part in the program and extended to them an invitation to return to the next business men's day meeting which would be held the third Friday of June. Mr. Callender also thanked the other business men present for attending this meeting and requested them to return and bring their fellow business men with them on June 20, 1941.

Operetta At Whittier School

"The Land of Springtime," an operetta, was presented by grades one and two to the PTA at Whittier school in the auditorium Friday afternoon, May 16. The theme was most appropriate at present and the costumes added much to the scenes. Lady Moon was played by Rowena Bobbitt; Little Girl was Marilyn Smith; Sunshine was portrayed by Bonnie Haggard; Springtime by Fern Etta Thomas and there were groups of Moonbeams, Fireflies, Stars, Raindrops, Birds, Fairies, Sunbeams, Flowers and Butterflies, who were represented by members of the primary grades. The operetta was directed by Misses Ruth McCune, Cassie Bolton and Mary Helen Meyer and songs were accompanied by Miss Catherine Garman, principal.

Mrs. Garnett Haggard presided over the last meeting of the year. Devotional was given by Mrs. W. T. Crane.

The recreational program for the summer was discussed by George Peak, instructor of grade 7 at Whittier school.
